Inside The Numbers

Nakatani retained his WBC bantamweight title for the second time against Salapat (76-1, won last 28) by first using his mastery of distance, airtight defense and spearing blows to neutralize the challenger, then his power to score two knockdowns in the sixth, the last of which persuaded referee Laurence Cole to wave off the match at the 2:59 mark of round six. The output was similar (47.7 punches per round for Nakatani compared to Salapat's 44.2) but the huge accuracy gaps of 40%-13% overall, 35%-2% jabs and 44%-22% power resulted in final margins of 114-34 overall, 51-2 jabs, 63-32 power and 6-0 in the CompuBox round-by-round breakdown of total connects. The only metric in which Salapat led was body connects (23-12) but in the final round, Nakatani landed as many total punches (34) as Salapat did in the entire match.
