Inside The Numbers

The 38-year-old "Chocolatito" returned to the ring following a 14-month absence against Robles (13-8-3, 2-3-1 in last six) in his hometown of Managua, Nicaragua, and though he was visibly slower of foot and his punches lacked their previous snap, his legendary work rate and stamina were on full display as he pounded out the unanimous decision victory. Robles put up a spirited effort as he averaged 94 punches per round, but he failed to consistently break through Gonzalez's guard while the future Hall of Famer gained strength and consistency with every passing round. Gonzalez, who averaged 109.2 punches per round for the fight, fired 93 per round in the first five rounds, then accelerated to 125.4 in the final five, including a fight-high 141 in the 10th. In a fight that saw a combined 2,032 total punch attempts, Gonzalez finished the fight ahead 279-149 overall, 39-12 jabs, 128-45 body, 240-137 power and 9-1 in the CompuBox round-by-round breakdown of total connects. He also prevailed 26%-16% overall, 12%-6% jabs and 32%-19% power. Scoring: 98-92, 97-93, 96-94 G.
