Inside The Numbers

Mayer, the reigning WBO welterweight champ, added Spencer's WBA super welterweight title and the WBC/WBO belts vacated by the retiring Cecilia Braekhus by winning a comprehensive unanimous decision in Spencer's home country of Canada. Mayer's relentless pressure, exceptional work rate (67.6 punches per two-minute round compared to Spencer's 40.3), dedicated body punching (she led 68-23 in connects), precision (31% overall, 18% jabs, 38% power), better defense (Mayer yielded 19% overall, 3% jabs and 29% power), excellent stamina (she averaged 74 punches per two-minute round in rounds 8-10) and underrated strength proved too much for Spencer, whose face was bloodied and discolored at the end. Mayer landed 20 or more total punches six times and reached 30 in the ninth while Spencer landed 10 or more total punches just twice (10 in the third, 11 in the fifth), resulting in final margins of 207-76 overall, 45-5 jabs, 162-70 power and 10-0 in the CompuBox round-by-round breakdown of total connects. Scoring: 100-90, 98-92 (2x). Mayer currently ranks #1 among female fighters with a 34.4% total conn. pct & 44.9% power conn. pct.
