Inside The Numbers

The combatants were separated by 5 landed punches after ten rounds. In seven of the ten rounds they were separated by five or fewer landed punches. Martin ended with a 62-36 edge in body shots landed. Martin hurt Albright in the ninth round, and Albright returned the favor in the final round. Had he been able to keep his mouthpiece in his mouth, Albright might have been able to knock down Martin. All three judges scored the fight 95-95.
