Inside The Numbers

Caroline Dubois took a unanimous decision over Amelia Moore in Birmingham, and the numbers back up the cards. Dubois out-landed Moore 97 to 63 while throwing 384 punches to Moore's 313, and she connected at a better clip overall, 25.3% to 20.1%. The difference was almost entirely power punching: Dubois landed 75 of 178 power shots at 42.1%, nearly doubling Moore's 37 of 159 at 23.3%. Her third round was the standout, 15 of 44 total with 12 of 23 power punches finding the mark. Moore actually edged the jab battle, landing 26 to 22 at a higher percentage, but she never solved Dubois inside, where Dubois piled up 22 body shots to Moore's 17. Moore's best work came late, out-landing Dubois 9 to 8 in the tenth and putting up her highest volume of the night over the final two rounds, but by then Dubois had already banked eight of the first nine rounds on the punch count.
